THE FIRST NIGHT.

Crowded Houseto
See Play of Sapho.

FLORENCE ROBERTS
WINS THE HONORS

Successful Opening of the Belasco
and Thall Company's Season.

FLORENCE ROBERTS, as Sapho, in the play of that name, was a success last night at the opera house. There were no seats empty and Honolulu's society was well represented.

The play is, of course, adapted from the celebrated novel by Alphonse Daudet, the French realist, but has been considerably emasculated both in translation and dramatization. It deals with the life and heart of a woman of the Parisian half world and gives glimpses of the fast Bohemianism of the capital.

The novel is considered immoral by many and so is the play, even though it has been pruned. It leaves a bad taste in one's mouth. Its pathos and many home-thrusts absorb one's sympathies and the immorality is often lost sight of. Perhaps it teaches a lesson but if so it is one that might well be preached to men only from a pulpit and not from the footlights.

The audience seemed to be pleased. There was not much applause, but those who know Honolulu audiences know they are very cold. The average resident here has to take a course of theatrials for a week before he or she awakes to the fact that good acting demands audible proof of pleasure.

Leaving aside the worth of the play, it must be said that Florence Roberts played it acceptably. She has a rare gracefulness and womanly manner that attracts.

She understands well the part and sustained it with an evenness that proved her abilities. It is a most trying role.

Miss Juliet Crosby, as Aunt Divonne, was excellent.

Of the men, Clarence Arper, as Uncle Caesaire, took first honors. Frank Gerson, as Jean Gausson, the leading male character, was good and bad. He did not rise to some of the more difficult situations but showed himself possessed of talent.

Clarence Montaine, as Dechelette, was good and Carlyle Moore, as Plamont, was so-so.

Marie Howe, who played the part of Madame Hettema, made the most of it. Little Ollie Cooper is a remarkable child actress and will in more prominent roles win favor.

The staging of Sapho was all that could be asked and the play went very smoothly. The following was the cast in full:

Fanny Le Grand..... Florence Roberts
Jean Gausson..... Mr. Frank Gerson
Dechelette..... Mr. Clarence Montaine
Caoudal..... Mr. Frank Readick
Flamont..... Mr. Carlyle Moore
Uncle Caesaire..... Mr. Clarence Arper
Hettema..... Mr. Scott Robertson
Joseph..... Mr. Ollie Cooper
La Gournier..... Mr. Jack Snell
De Potter..... Mr. Fred. Potter
Servant..... Mr. Jack Morris
Janitor..... Mr. Jack Morris
Messenger..... Mr. Hubert Jordan
Jockey..... Mr. Tom Franks
Madame Hettema..... Miss Marie Howe
Aunt Divonne..... Miss Juliet Crosby
Alice..... Miss May Davies
Irene..... Miss Stella Razeto
Miss Edith Jordan..... Miss Edith Jordan
To-To..... Miss Mae Mason
A Roman Peasant..... Miss Maria Lyons

The synopsis of the play is as follows:
Act I. Scene 1—The Ball at Dechelette's. (Intermission of five minutes.)
Scene 2—At Fanny's.
Act II. At Jean's Apartments, Paris.
Act III. At Jean's and Fanny's Cottage in the Country. Spring.
Act IV. The Same. Winter.
The music was under the direction of Captain H. Berger and was good.

SONG.

Love took my life and thrilled it
Through all its strings,
Play'd round my mind and filled it
With sound of wings
But to my heart he never came
To touch it with his golden flame.

Therefore it is that singing
I do rejoice,
Nor heed the slow years bringing
A harsher voice,
Because the songs which he has sung,
Still leave the untouched singer young.

But whom in fuller fashion
The Master sways,
For him, swift wing'd with passion,
Fleet the brief days,
Betimes the enforced accents come,
And leave him ever after dumb.

—Sir Lewis Morris.

HIS HIGH COLLAR KILLED HIM.

Holiday revelers should take warning by the fate of Edward Cosgrove of Philadelphia and eschew high stand-up collars if convivially inclined. Cosgrove came home intoxicated, sat down at the front of the stairs and went to sleep. Next morning he was found dead, strangled by his own collar.

A Martyr to Principle.—"Ah, poor thing! Her end was sad in the extreme." "Indeed!" "You know she always revolted at the idea that there could be anything in common between her and the lower classes." "So I have always heard." "Well, she caught cold from her cook, and was so ashamed that she refused all medical aid, and died."—Life.

"Agunaldo is said to be really dead," remarked the Observant Boarder. "I don't believe a word of it," replied the Cross-Eyed Boarder. "If Aggie were dead, Senator Pettigrew would introduce a motion to adjourn the Senate and appoint a committee to draft resolutions of condolence."—Pittsburg Chronicle.
